RE: Gulf States Toyota, Inc. Federal PAC; FEC ID. # C00349373
2001 Year End Amendment

Dear Gentlemen/Ladies:

The Gulf States Toyota, Inc. Federal PAC (the "PAC") is submitting this written amendment to the PAC's 2001 year-end report. After completing an extensive audit of the PAC's activities from December 2001 through the present time, we have discovered several items which need to be corrected.

PAC representatives have visited with the information desk as well as with our report analyst. After consultation we have the following issues to address with this amendment.

- 1) The PAC sponsor paid for bank charges in setting up the PAC's original bank account. An insufficient funds charge and a check printing charge totaling $71.95 was paid ($25.00 insufficient fund fee and $46.95 printing charges). We discovered that was in fact reflected in the account statement and should therefore be reported as a reimbursement by the connected organization.
- 2) A bank service charge of $12.22 in December 2001 has now been reported.
- 3) Two contributions received in December were reported in the name of the associate. During our audit we noted the check was in fact signed by the spouse. We are amending the report to reflect the spouse as the contributor.
- 4) Four contributions received in December were reported. We have determined that these particular checks were in fact not deposited in a timely manner. As such, these contributions have been disgorged and returned to the contributing associates.

In addition to these four items amended in the year-end report, our audit has identified several other issues during 2002. After several consultations with our analyst, we are amending the 2002 reports to correct these issues. In summary these issues are as follows:

JANUARY 2002:

- 1) A contribution check was not timely deposited. The amount has been disgorged and returned to the contributor.
- 2) An authorized payroll deduction was properly made from an associate. However, due to a computer coding error, the amount deposited to the PAC account was mistakenly doubled. This coding error resulted in $9.62 of corporate funds inadvertently being deposited in the PAC account by the collecting agent. These excess funds have been disgorged and returned to the collecting agent. At no time were corporate funds ever transferred to candidates.

FEBRUARY 2002:

The collecting agent realized there was an excess amount deposited to the account in January. In an effort to resolve the coding error in January, the collecting agent decided to collect the February withholding from the associate and net it against the excess January contribution. Effectively, a contribution of $9.62 was not timely deposited in the PAC account. This amount has now been returned to the contributor.

MARCH/APRIL 2002:

As a continuation of the collecting agent programming error, all payroll deductions from 27 contributors for 3 successive payrolls were doubled and deposited with the PAC. This resulted in $1,086.24 of collecting agent funds being deposited with the PAC. All such funds have been disgorged and returned to the collecting agent. At no time have any corporate funds been dispersed to candidates.

MAY 2002:

The collecting agent discovered the coding error and that excess funds were deposited to the PAC in March and April. Then, in an effort to resolve the coding error, the collecting agent decided to hold payroll deductions for the next three pay periods in May in order to "net out" the excess funds deposited in the PAC account. Effectively, contributions in the form of payroll deductions were not deposited with the PAC. Our audit identified this "netting" activity. All amounts withheld by the collecting agent have been returned to the contributors because the funds cannot now be timely deposited.

JUNE 2002:

The collecting agent withheld $12.50 each from two contributors to complete the netting out of the excess funds. The amounts have been returned to the contributing associates.

JULY 2002:

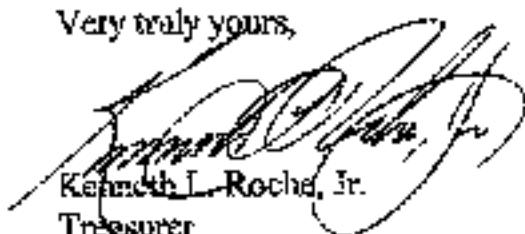

Because of an error by the collecting agent, the amount of the authorized deductions from contributors was automatically deducted from the PAC account instead of being deposited to the PAC account which resulted in an unauthorized disbursement from the PAC. This disbursement has been refunded to the PAC by the collecting agent. All monies refunded were funds originally collected by the PAC, from federally permissible sources. Those deductions that were not deposited timely have been returned to the contributors.

The amendments of the reports listed above resolves the issues discovered during the audit. As a further note regarding the programming errors with the collecting agent, the PAC was not consulted by the collecting agent regarding the programming errors and their attempts to resolve the problem. The PAC continued to report payroll deductions and deposits based on the information received. It was when we consulted with PAC representatives to do an audit that the errors were discovered. Since the discovery by the PAC of the collecting agent programming errors the PAC is no longer allowing the collecting agent to process the payroll deduction transfers automatically and the PAC has deactivated the ability of the bank account to make or receive automatic electronic transfers. The PAC is now taking additional steps to verify the sources and amounts of payroll deductions.

Please find attached, the Amended 2001 Year-End report for filing. This report was filed manually as we started monthly electronic reporting with the February 2002 report.

Should you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact me. Your attention to this matter is greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Kenneth L. Roche, Jr.
Treasurer
